FASCIST VICEROY OF ETHIOPIA AND GARRISON SURRENDER

120 Americans on Egyptian Liner Lost in South Atlantic

BRITAIN'S STRUGGLE IN MIDDLE EAST IS FURTHER ENTANGLED

By the Associated Press
Prime Minister Winston Churchill's pledge to tear Italy's African empire "to tatters and shreds" moved nearer fulfillment today as the Duke of Aosta, Fascist viceroy of Ethiopia, surrendered himself and 35,000 to 38,000 troops to the British at Amba Alaji.
Premier Mussolini's High Command said the duke's army, trapped on a 9,000-foot mountain stronghold 280 miles northeast of Addis Ababa, capitulated after running out of food and water.
Italian resistance in the African kingdom, it was said, is continuing only in the sectors of Jimma, in the south, and Gondar, in the northwest.
In another phase of the war, 120 Americans—including 24 United States ambulance drivers en route to serve with the British and "Free French" forces in Egypt—were feared to have lost their lives in the sinking of the Egyptian steamer Zamzam somewhere in the south Atlantic between Brazil and Capetown, South Africa.
In the Middle East war theatre, Britain's struggle was further complicated when General Henri Dentz, high commissioner of French-ruled Syria and Lebanon, called on the Syrians to resist "criminal aggressions" of the British.

ALLEVIATIONS FOR FRANCE TO BE ANNOUNCED

By the Associated Press
Berlin, May 19.—An official communiqué probably will be issued tomorrow announcing what new arrangements have been made between the French and German governments as a result of the recent conversations, authorized sources said today.
A part of these new arrangements, it was indicated, will likely be certain alleviations in the armistice conditions.
These alleviations, it was indicated, will result from the conversations Adolf Hitler, Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop and Otto Aebetz, the German ambassador to Paris, have held with French Vice-Premier Admiral Jean Darlan and Fernand De Brinon, the French representative to German authorities in Paris.
Rumors that Paris would be included in the unoccupied zone as a result of tomorrow's communiqué were declared to be unfounded.
Also declared unfounded were rumors that the French government (Turn to Page Thirteen)

CURWENSVILLE MAN GUILTY OF BURGLARY

Clearfield, May 19.—(P)—A jury that deliberated a half-hour Saturday convicted Reuben Robinson, Curwensville merchant, of taking part in the burglary of $7,000 worth of furs from the Clearfield Taxidermy March 31.
Judge W. Wallace Smith indicated he would impose sentence some time this week.
Three Altoona men who admitted taking the furs testified for the state that Robinson plotted the theft. The Commonwealth developed its case through State Police Corporal George Bunk, who posed as a "go-between" among the Altoona men and Robinson.
Robinson claimed he was "framed."

Summary of Highlights of World News

State College, May 19.—(P)—A blaze, which firemen said originated in a smoke-house, last night destroyed the 107-year-old farm home of Mrs. Lulu Glenn near Stormtown, eight miles north of this Centre county town.
Chicago, May 19.—(P)—Representatives of the five big railroad operating unions, representing 350,000 workers, announced today they had decided to launch a concerted, national campaign for a 30 per cent increase in all basic rates of pay.
Harrisburg, May 19.—(P)—The Pennsylvania State Grange notified all members of the legislature today it is opposed "to the continuance of the compulsory price fixing provisions in the present state milk control law." The grange stated its position in letters to representatives and senators signed by Miles Horst, secretary and legislative representative.
Little River, S. C., May 19.—(P)—A coroner's jury termed "an unavoidable accident" an explosion yesterday that killed seven persons and injured 14 others and left the excursion boat Nightingale an inferno 12 miles at sea. The verdict ended an inquiry into the accident, which marred the annual fishing outing of 39 employees of a soft drink company.
Berlin, May 19.—(P)—DNE, official German news agency, said today that a German bomber, catching a British submarine by surprise, scored two bomb hits on her before she could submerge, and quickly sank her southwest of Weymouth, in the English channel.

Syria takes the war spotlight as axis planes use the ancient country's airfields as stepping stones to Iraq, and British counter with bombing raids on Syrian bases and skirmishes on the Palestine frontier. Map shows airfields, railroads and highways in area where British-German fight for oil is beginning.

Senate Leaders Decide to Stay in Capital Four Days a Week to Speed Up Adjournment

Democratic Majority Leader Predicts "Action" This Week or Next on Appropriations Introduced in the House PARTY HAS "BUDGET"

Philadelphia, May 19.—(P)—Grace Luetta Sheaffer, of Pennsylvania, Delaware county, was sentenced today to ten years in the State Industrial Home at Muncy and she and two sisters were fined $1,000 each today on forgery charges stemming from the search for heirs to the $200,000,000 Henrietta E. Garrett estate.
The British radio quoted a Rumanian broadcast as saying that German infantry was being transported through the Bosphorus, Turkish-controlled link between the Black Sea and the Mediterranean, presumably bound for Syria and Iraq.
Reports from Baghdad, the capital of Iraq, said that the Iraq army "most effectively" bombed British warships in the Persian gulf at Basra and that the British garrison at Habbaniyah airdrome, 60 miles west of Baghdad, was cut off from reinforcements.
The Habbaniyah garrison has been under siege since May 2, when Iraq artillery and British troops clashed. Iraq's premier Rashid Ali Al Gailani appealed to Germany for help.
With France taking an increasingly active role in the war, the French announced officially that Germany has agreed to return approximately 100,000 French prisoners of war as one of the first results of French-German negotiations.
The group includes all French non-commissioned officers and soldiers now held prisoner who fought in the 1914-18 World War. Altogether, Germany hold 1,800,000 French soldiers captive.
Authorized quarters in Berlin said an official communiqué would probably be issued tomorrow outlining the new arrangements between Germany and France. Rumors that Paris would be "freed" of the Nazi yoke and placed in the unoccupied zone were described as unfounded.
On the offensive during the week end the RAF reported a bag of 22 Axis aircraft, mainly German and at least 20 more were said to have been damaged in air battles over the Mediterranean.

A. F. L. THREAT AWAITING ACTION OF GOV. OLSON

By the Associated Press
Striking AFL and CIO machinists of 11 San Francisco bay area shipyards faced today a threat by AFL unions to break the picket lines unless the walkout ended.
The Bay City Metal Trades Council voted yesterday to send 15,000 workers past the pickets to resume production on $500,000,000 of defense orders. Action was deferred, however, until after a meeting tomorrow night at which Governor Culbert L. Olson will appeal to the 1,700 strikers to get back on the job in the interest of national defense.
The AFL Machinists Union, a member of the council, was not represented at the meeting which resulted in the decision to breach the picket lines. John Frey, international head of the AFL's Metal Trades Union, said the other 15,000 workers would return to work regardless of "anything that happens at the meeting of the machinists and the governor."
To this representative of AFL machinists replied that they would make no attempt to keep men from returning to work, but he said it was impossible to build ships without machinists. And Mervyn Rathbone, CIO official, said the CIO would be "mobilized" against any attempt to pass the pickets.

Merchants Aiding

Those "graduation" presents are the talk of the town.
In fact, the Times-Mirror feels entitled to call its approaching event, opening tomorrow at 2 p. m., the "Talk of the Town Cooking School."
The appeal of both daily and major awards, the prospect of fresh inspiration for the "same old job" together with the promise of practical and entertaining programs, are combining to forecast capacity audiences in the Y. W. C. A. activities building for the three sessions—May 20, 21, 22 and 23.
The Times-Mirror has no intention of claiming full credit for this important rally of home managers. Sharing equally in thoughtful plans to make the popular Cooking School available to the community is a group of forward-looking merchants.

HARD COAL CONTRACT IS SIGNED

Short-Lived Work Stoppage In Anthracite Industry Ends When United Mine Workers of America and Pennsylvania Operators Tentatively Agree on New Wage Scale Granting Increases to 100,000 Workers

BITUMINOUS PARLEY MAY GO TO BOARD

New York, May 19.—(P)—A short-lived work stoppage in the anthracite coal industry ended today when the United Mine Workers of America (U. M. W.) and Pennsylvania hard coal operators tentatively agreed on a new wage contract granting wage increases to approximately 100,000 hard coal miners.
John L. Lewis, U. M. W. president, telegraphed local unions throughout the anthracite area to have the men return to the mines tomorrow morning.
The stoppage became effective yesterday morning after having been called last Saturday night when it appeared the union and operators would be unable to reach an agreement.
The tentative agreement provides for a basic wage increase of 7 1/2 per cent on all contract and day rates until October 1 when the increase will be advanced to 10 per cent.
The union had asked for a $1-a-day increase over the prevailing basic rate of $4.62 a day and a 20 per cent increase for contract workers.
Meanwhile, soft coal operators and the U. M. W. resumed negotiations after assuring William H. Davis, vice chairman of the National Defense Mediation Board, that the Appalachian soft coal mines would be kept open while new avenues leading toward an agreement were explored.
They will meet with the Defense Mediation Board in Washington Friday if they fail to agree by then.
Davis intervened in the bituminous coal conflict when a second work stoppage in those fields became likely. The U. M. W. and southern operators are deadlocked over a 40-cent wage differential between northern and southern fields.

OVER SCORE KILLED IN WEEKEND ACCIDENTS

By the Associated Press
Fire, automobile accidents, drownings and train mishaps killed more than a score of persons in Pennsylvania over the weekend.
Two of the victims were William Mountain, 27, and William Houghton, 21, who drowned when the outboard motorboat they were testing in the Schuylkill river at Philadelphia capsized. Two companions swam to shore.
Homer M. Ferry of Thompsonstown, going to work for the first time on a quarry job near Milliford, was crushed to death beneath a truck.

RETIRE JURIST PLACED ON TRIAL IN PHILADELPHIA

Philadelphia, May 19.—(P)—A defense maneuver aimed at challenging indictments returned against Judge J. Warren Davis, retired jurist of the Third Circuit Court of Appeals, was over-ruled today and he immediately was placed on trial in federal court on criminal charges.
As the case was called earlier, counsel for Davis and Morgan S. Kaufman, Scranton, attorney, petitioned District Judge Robert N. Pollard of Richmond, Va., to permit them withdraw pleas of innocent and to file demurrers challenging validity of the indictments.
Davis, Kaufman and William S. Fox, bankrupt movie magnate, were indicted March 28 on charges of conspiracy to obstruct justice and defraud the United States.
Fox at once pleaded guilty and is awaiting sentence.
Judge Pollard today permitted Davis and Kaufman to withdraw their pleas of innocent, but he denied their motions for a demurrer.
Both defendants were immediately re-arrested and both again pleaded innocent.
Judge Pollard recessed the trial to consider the petitions. He was especially appointed by Chief Justice Hughes to hear the case—second time in the nation's history a federal jurist has been held on criminal charges.

Charity Organization Head Given 20 Years

Pittsburgh, May 19.—(P)—Frank H. Wise, 53, former head of the Volunteers of America here for 20 years, was sentenced today to a year and a day in the penitentiary on charges of evading approximately $2,800 in income taxes.
Wise had pleaded guilty to failure to report $27,000 in taxable income in 1934, 1935 and 1936 while he was still head of the charity organization. He was furloughed from the post two years ago and had been living in Lebanon, Pa.
In a four-page report of the case to Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, assistant U. S. Attorney Elliot W. Finkel said: "He (Wise) was virtually a sovereign in his own domain. What became of, or what he did with the nickels and dollars so earnestly solicited for charity was apparently no concern of his superiors."

PAN-AMERICANS PLAN TO STUDY SHIP PROPOSALS

Envoys of Twenty-One Nations Scheduled to Report on Number, Tonnage, Nationality and Condition of All Refugee Vessels

VIEWS ARE REVEALED

By Lloyd Lehrbas
Washington, May 19.—(P)—The proposals of the 21 American republics for utilizing nearly 200 foreign ships tied up in hemisphere ports will be presented for unified action at a meeting here Thursday of the Inter-American Financial and Economic Advisory Committee.
Envoys of the American nations, it was learned today are scheduled at that time to report on the number, tonnage, nationality and condition of all refugee ships now idle in their ports.
At the same time, it was learned, members of the committee will present their government's specific recommendations for putting the vessels back into service to help relieve the acute shortage of cargo space on hemisphere trade routes.
Several south and central American Republics already have presented their views to the Inter-American Committee, and the United States is understood to be ready with an outline of its plans.
No uniform action on the idle ships has yet been taken by the American nations but Thursday's meeting may pave the way for formulation of a general hemisphere policy.
At least six other nations—Mexico, Venezuela, Peru, Costa Rica, Ecuador and Cuba—have seized Axis ships, while Chile has taken over Danish vessels, but taken no action concerning German and Italian vessels.

FRANKLIN ROOSEVELT JR., IS NOT SERIOUS

Boston, May 19.—(P)—The condition of Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., injured in an automobile accident yesterday, was described as "good" today at the Phillips House of the Massachusetts General Hospital.
Physicians said that he is in "no danger" and they expected he would be discharged soon.
The president's son, an ensign at the Newport, R. I., naval training station, was returning to the base from the Nahant home of his brother, John, when a blowout caused the car to swerve off the road and overturn in Walpole. He suffered cuts on the head and face.

CAUSE OF SINKING IS UNKNOWN

Fate of 201 Passengers Aboard Steamer Zamzam, Which Goes Down While Enroute From New York to Alexandria, Remains a Mystery, With Authorities Silent Regarding Circumstances Leading to Tragedy

MANY OF THE VICTIMS ARE MISSIONARIES

By the Associated Press
New York, May 19.—The broad expanse of the South Atlantic, or possibly the Indian ocean—clocked the fate today of 120 Americans, 81 other passengers and 120 crewmen aboard the 8,299-ton Egyptian passenger liner Zamzam, reported sunk on a voyage from New York to Alexandria, Egypt.
Aside from the bare Alexandria announcement that the ship had gone to the bottom after leaving Recife, Pernambuco, Brazil, on April 9 for Capetown, South Africa, her next stop, there was no definite word of what happened to the 32-year-old motorship.
London officials said merely that the ship was "presumed lost," declining to elaborate.
By the Associated Press
Alexandria, Egypt, May 19.—The fate of 201 passengers—including 120 Americans—aboard the Egyptian steamer Zamzam, which sank in the south Atlantic while en route from New York to Alexandria, remained unknown today.
Authorities likewise were silent on the cause which sent the 8,299-ton passenger liner to the bottom somewhere between Recife (Pernambuco), Brazil, and Capetown, Union of South Africa.
The Alexandria Navigation Company received a cable from London advising that the Zamzam's master, Captain William Gray Smith, a veteran of 37 years at sea, was missing but there were no other details.
Coinciding with the company's bare announcement of the sinking, the British Ministry of Information in London said the ship was "presumed lost" in the south Atlantic after leaving Pernambuco on May 9.

MOTHER SLAIN WITH TWO TOTS

Newark, Del., May 19.—(P)—A mother and her two children were found beaten to death in their farm home five miles south of Newark today and state police said the first floor of the bungalow showed signs of "a terrific struggle."
The body of Mrs. Ethel Webb, 30, lay on the floor of a bedroom. In an adjoining room was the body of six-year-old Clarence. In a crib was Judith, seven months, also dead.
State police said they had established the trio was beaten to death, apparently with an axe. They said they were looking for a suspect.
The Webbs have been living as tenants on a 100-acre tract used for raising poultry. The place is owned by H. S. Palmer, who found the bodies.

ANNIVERSARY OF SALEM SOCIETY IS CELEBRATED

There was an excellent attendance for the celebration held at the Salem Evangelical church on Sunday to mark the 40th anniversary of the organization of the Christian Endeavor Society.

Dinner was served to about 75 at six o'clock, with the rainbow jubilee color scheme carried out in decorations and the present head of the society, Miss Phyllis Backstrom, acting as toastmaster. There was group singing and informal speeches to comprise an entertaining program. A feature was the taking of a group photograph.

During the evening service, the address was delivered by Rev. J. C. Ludwig, of Toledo, O., who was the first president of the group. Of the five original officers still surviving, four were present for this anniversary and were given American Beauty roses by Miss Lillian Ristau, president of the Junior League. These honored guests were Mrs. Amelia Gollnick, Ristau, Mrs. Marie Schmoecker, Hedges, Mrs. Anna Maeder, Nelson, Rev. Frank A. Kehrl and Rev. Ludwig.

Also introduced were the current officers: Miss Backstrom; Miss Elvira Rydholm, vice president; Miss Melda Olsen, recording secretary; Miss Mary Hennessey, corresponding secretary; Myron Rydholm, treasurer.

Another interesting portion of the service was the dramatization of the youth hymn, "Follow the Glean," written by Sallie Hume Douglass.

At the time of organization, this group was known by the denominational name "Young People's Alliance of the Evangelical Association" and was the 17th unit chartered under this title. Today, it is known as the "Evangelical League of Christian Endeavor" of the Evangelical church. In all the years, the organization has had a continuous existence and has maintained a continuous record and roll. From the organization have gone eight men to the Christian ministry: Fred Egger, Ludwig Strehler, Gottfried Schneider, Frank A. Kehrl, Ernest Keopp, Herman Kaebnick, Ernest Kaebnick and Paul Ackert.

SNEAK THIEVES ENTER WARREN HIGH BUILDING

Sneak thieves, who may have been the same persons who broke into the Warren Public Library the previous night, visited the Warren High School building some time during Saturday night and obtained approximately four dollars in cash after breaking combinations on two safes.

The robbery was discovered Sunday morning by a member of the staff when he visited the building. According to Superintendent John G. Rossman, entrance to the building was gained by jimmying the front door. The high school principal's office was first visited. Here, the thieves broke open one of three safes used for keeping students' records.

From the principal's office, they went to the superintendent's office, where the lock on a large vault was broken. It was in this vault that the small amount of cash was found.

School officials said today that there was no need for the thieves to break into the safe containing the records in the principal's office, since the combinations for all three safes were on a card attached to one of them.

Police investigating this robbery and the one at the public library on Friday night were still without clues today, it was stated.

Hikers Enjoy Trip To Wardwell Sector

Twenty-six hikers, including four newcomers, joined the Allegheny Hiking Club's 58th trip yesterday afternoon. The party drove up the Kinzua road, stopping near Wardwell run where cars were parked, and the hikers walked south to the edge of Hook run into Big Timber. From there they proceeded east along Hook run to the old three inch pipe line; thence south again to Wildcat Rocks, turning north and following pipe line back to the highway and the starting point.

The trip this week, under the guidance of Perry McDannell, was unusual in that the course was not along any well defined trails, but was directional, the entire route being plotted by compass. Although the total distance covered was nearly seven miles, several of the more experienced hikers felt that the journey was only

ANNIVERSARY OF SALEM SOCIETY IS CELEBRATED

There was an excellent attendance for the celebration held at the Salem Evangelical church on Sunday to mark the 40th anniversary of the organization of the Christian Endeavor Society.

Dinner was served to about 75 at six o'clock with the rainbow jubilee color scheme carried out in decorations and the present head of the society, Miss Phyllis Backstrom, acting as toastmaster. There was group singing and informal speeches to comprise an entertaining program. A feature was the taking of a group photograph.

During the evening service, the address was delivered by Rev. J. C. Ludwig, of Toledo, O., who was the first president of the group. Of the five original officers still surviving, four were present for this anniversary and were given American Beauty roses by Miss Lillian Ristau, president of the Junior League. These honored guests were Mrs. Amelia Gohlrich Ristau, Mrs. Marie Schmoecker Hedges, Mrs. Anna Maeder Nelson, Rev. Frank A. Kehrl and Rev. Ludwig.

Also introduced were the current officers: Miss Backstrom; Miss Elvira Rydholm, vice president; Miss Melba Olsen, recording secretary; Miss Mary Hennessey, corresponding secretary; Myron Rydholm, treasurer.

Another interesting portion of the service was the dramatization of the youth hymn, "Follow the Gleam," written by Sallie Hume Douglass.

At the time of organization, this group was known by the denominational name "Young People's Alliance of the Evangelical Association" and was the 17th unit chartered under this title. Today, it is known as the "Evangelical League of Christian Endeavor" of the Evangelical church. In all the years, the organization has had a continuous existence and has maintained a continuous record and roll. From the organization have gone eight men to the Christian ministry: Fred Egger, Ludwig Strehler, Gottfried Schneider, Frank A. Kehrl, Ernest Koop, Herman Kaebnick, Ernest Kaebnick and Paul Ackert.

SNEAK THIEVES ENTER WARREN HIGH BUILDING

Sneak thieves, who may have been the same persons who broke into the Warren Public Library the previous night, visiting the Warren High School building some time during Saturday night and obtained approximately four dollars in cash after breaking combinations on two safes.

The robbery was discovered Sunday morning by a member of the staff when he visited the building. According to Superintendent John G. Rossman, entrance to the building was gained by jimmying the front door. The high school principal's office was first visited. Here, the thieves broke open one of three safes used for keeping students' records.

From the principal's office, they went to the superintendent's office, where the lock on a large vault was broken. It was in this vault that the small amount of cash was found.

School officials said today that there was no need for the thieves to break into the safe containing the records in the principal's office, since the combinations for all three safes were on a card attached to one of them.

Police investigating this robbery and the one at the public library on Friday night were still without clues today. It was stated.

Hikers Enjoy Trip To Wardwell Sector

Twenty-six hikers, including four newcomers, joined the Allegheny Hiking Club's 58th trip yesterday afternoon. The party drove up the Kinzua road, stopping near Wardwell run where cars were parked, and the hikers walked south to the edge of Hook run into Big Timber. From there they proceeded east along Hook run to the old three inch pipe line; thence south again to Wildcat Rocks, turning north and following pipe line back to the highway and the starting point.

The trip this week, under the guidance of Perry McDannel, was unusual in that the course was not along any well defined trails, but was directional, the entire route being plotted by compass. Although the total distance covered was nearly seven miles, several of the more experienced hikers felt that the journey was only

A MACHINE GUN spits bullets faster than you can count. An airplane propeller whirrs at a rate that makes its blades invisible. Yet one of the commonplace features of modern warplanes is the synchronization which permits mounting of guns to fire between the propeller blades. The above diagram will help you understand how it's done. Synchronization was perfected during the World War, when planes were equipped with wooden propellers which were less vulnerable, but it's still a good idea to keep bullets and blades from mixing.

WARREN COUNTY DIRECT RELIEF ROLLS DECLINE

The downward movement in Warren county relief rolls continued during the week ending May 10, when a decrease of 14 cases was shown, according to information from the state department of public assistance. This decrease brought the total number of cases in the county down to 148, representing 335 persons.

This county's decrease was the result of 20 cases being closed and only six opened during the week. Chief gain was caused by a net decrease of seven cases resulting from increased private employment.

THE RED CROSS NEEDS HELP

The local group making surgical dressings for the Red Cross is seriously handicapped because of lack of workers and those in charge are making a special appeal to all women in Warren who can possibly do so lend their services in the most worthy activity.

The urgency of the project is emphasized in the following excerpts from a letter received by Mrs. Louis Jamieson, Warren County Chairman of Surgical Dressings, from Walter Davidson at National Headquarters of the American Red Cross in Washington:

"When the Red Cross accepted a quota of forty million surgical dressings for the United States Army, it was agreed that these were to be completed by June 30th. We hope therefore that chapters taking part in this program will be able to complete the dressings by that time. We do not wish to have any of our chapters that have taken part in the surgical dressings program either for war relief or for the United States Army disband or dismantle their workrooms as the call for an-others may come at any time."

The Warren county quota is 10,800 surgical dressings of which only 1,500 have been completed over a period of six weeks. In order to complete the remainder of the quota by June 30th the number of workers must be increased fourfold.

Mothers, relatives and friends of our boys in the service should be interested particularly in this work as a large percentage of these dressings are sent to United States Army camps.

The surgical dressing group works at room 501 in the Warren Savings Bank and Trust Company building from ten until twelve and from two to four on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. The room is also open from seven until nine on Monday and Thursday evenings.

Workers are advised that they should wear washable dresses or smocks with long sleeves while engaged in making dressings. Uniforms are not required.

Your help is needed!

OUR COOKING SCHOOL

The Times-Mirror takes genuine pride and pleasure in extending a cordial welcome to the women of Warren and vicinity to attend the annual Cooking School which will open tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock at the Y.
W. C. A. activities building, with the nationally known culinary expert, Mrs. Katherine Baldrige, as the lecturer in charge.

Mrs. Baldrige understands the feminine instinct for culinary creation. She knows that successful cooking is expressing a talent as great as any artist. It is an even greater gift than the other arts. In the estimation of this sympathetic food authority, for the expert cook builds sturdy bodies, capable of sterner resistance to fatigue and disease.

Knowing that new interest from the cook means new variety in the home, Mrs. Baldrige will among other things, stress unexpected surprises in color, seasoning, table service and decoration, intended to tempt the lazy appetite and bring plates rushing back for that flattering second helping.

In planning the School, this year as in the past, the Times-Mirror has received excellent co-operation from local merchants and other business establishments, for which we are extremely grateful.

The death of John C. Harrington, Sr., highly-respected Irvine citizen and popular Pennsylvania railroad employee for over a half a century, brings sadness to the hearts of many throughout the area. He was a man of fine qualities, a devoted parent and loyal friend. To the sorrow bereaved family the community extends its deepest sympathy in a great loss.

According to reports from nearby sections that fog blanket Sunday morning prevented the borough from experiencing a hard frost. Motorists report the roofs were white between Russell and Frewsburg early yesterday morning.

Aside to the men folk: If the wife means to be late with dinner during the next few days, don't grumble.
She'll probably be taking lessons at the cooking school.

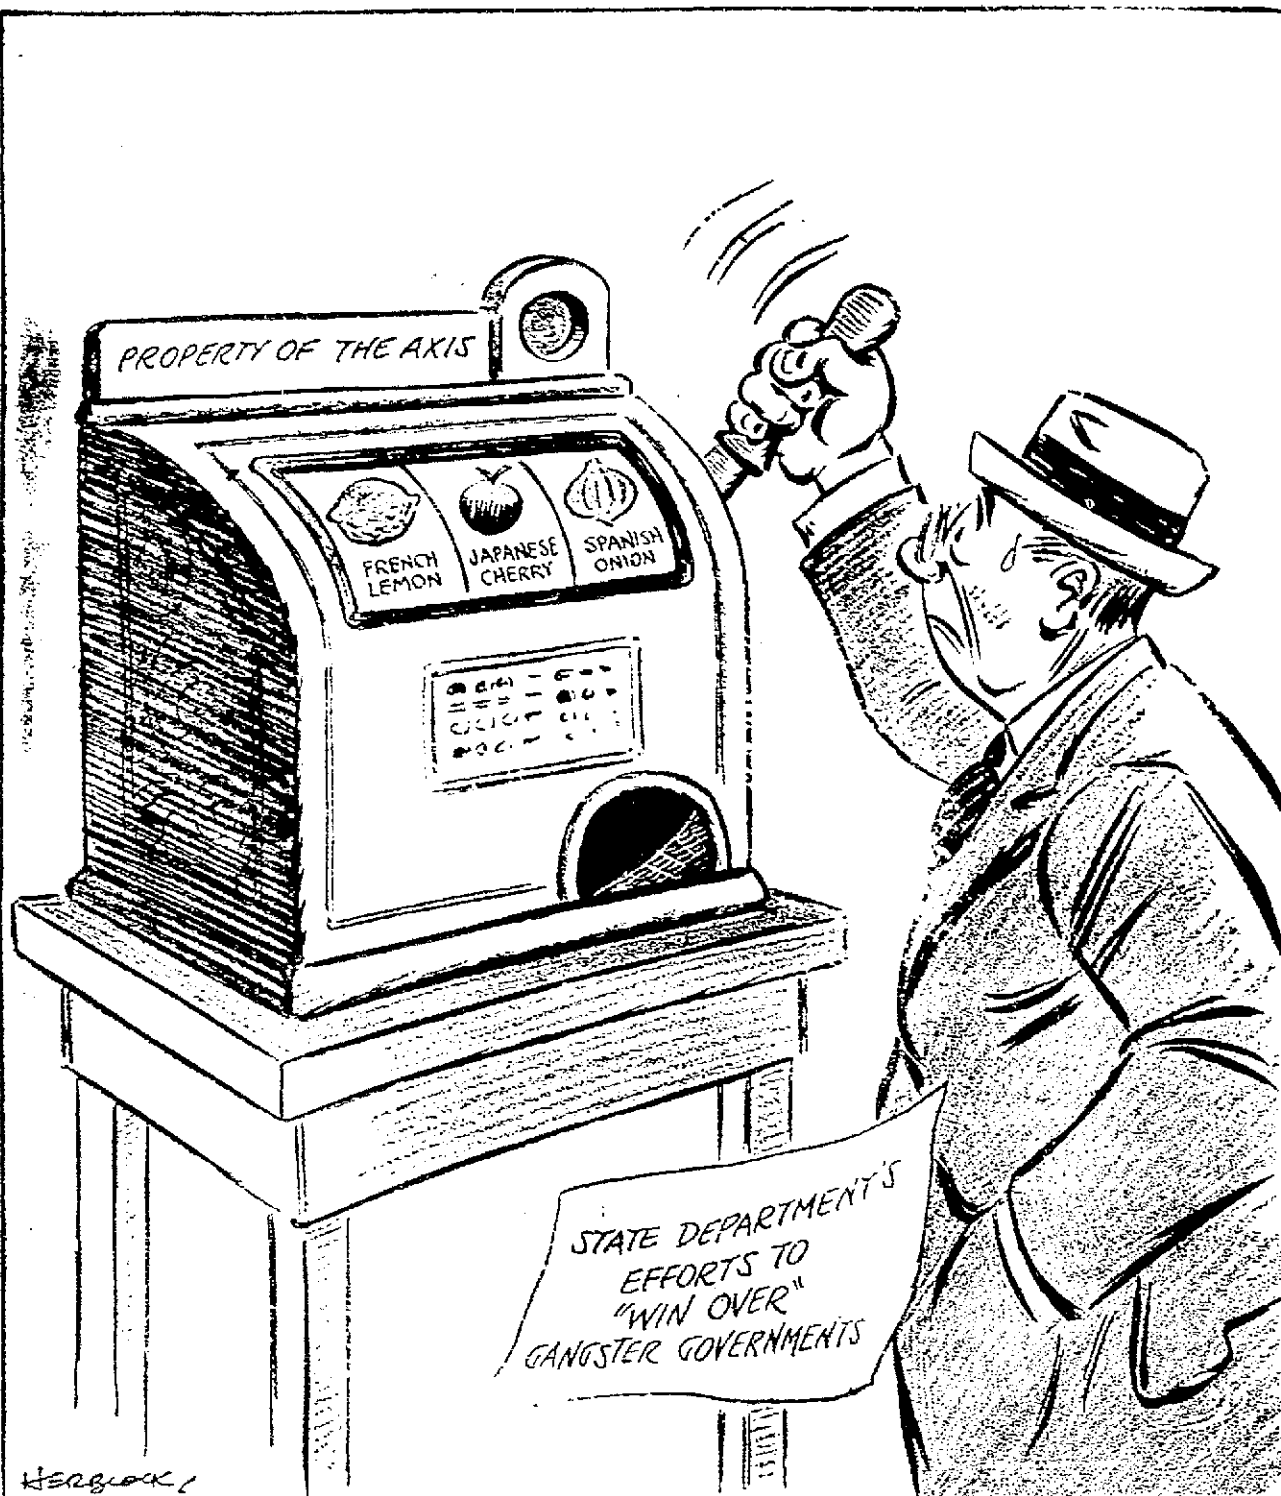

And this was an ideal wash day.

EDSON IN WASHINGTON

BY PETER EDSON
Times-Mirror Washington Correspondent

Washington, May 18.—It isn't just in the country at large, outside the District of Columbia, that people are confused, wondering what's coming next, wondering who's leading whom where and what for. The whispering gallery that is Washington is as full of uncertainties as a Molotov bread-basket.

There are unofficial, self-appointed experts at every luncheon and dinner table who know exactly why Hess went to Scotland, five minutes after he landed, who profess to know the exact status of the convoy issue, who say they have the real inside straight dope on what Stimson meant in his last speech, and who can tell you exactly what kind of little green apples the President ate that gave him his current belly ache. Move over to another eating symposium, however, and you get an entirely different set of answers. The only conclusion is that lots of people in Washington also don't know what they're talking about, either.

Out of the wallow of conversation over the postponement of the President's Pan-American speech, however, has come one interesting idea. The President, it was argued, didn't want to declare for or against convoys. Two weeks later the situation might be changed so that he could speak out.

The question is therefore raised as to what extent the stall has become a matter of policy, or at least to what extent it has become an American diplomatic device, and how effectively it has been wielded by the President. He has built up a reputation as a forthright leader with the chin, but the record tends to show that on those occasions when he has come out of his corner, jaw first on some issue, way ahead of his seconds and public, he has taken a terrific pasting. The Supreme Court reform, NEA, the purge and Yugoslavia come to mind, to name four.

The whole problem resolves itself into this all-important matter of timing. Try to start a fight before the bell rings and you're a punk. Stall a little, particularly if your opponent is stronger than you are, and perhaps he'll show his weakness.

How effective has the stall been as a matter of policy? Plenty of people have been arguing that the President should come right out and tell the country whether or not we are to have convoys. Supposing the President said no, we won't convoy. That would be as good as a major victory for Hitler.
Supposing he said yes, we'll convoy. With a majority of the country not yet convinced conveying is the thing to do, with the President himself on record that convoys mean shooting and shooting means war, with even Secretary of War Stimson admitting that we won't be ready for war for a year. In that predicament, is a stall justified or is it not?

The question is posed here not in any defense of dilly-dallying, but merely to present the arguments.

The question of when to show strength is one of the questions of timing again—is one that has to be nicely determined. A case can be made for the claim that there is a big advantage now in keeping Hitler guessing as to what American policy will be, when the bid of greater American support for Britain will be made, and how much it will be.

That the raise will be forthcoming eventually seems inevitable. It will be made only when there is more yelling for it from the country at large and from Congress in particular, and from far more substantial citizens than the Peppers and Guffeys.

STORIES IN STAMPS

Bible Has Important Place in Philately

THE Bible—the world's perennial best-seller—makes news
again with the release by Roman Catholic hierarchy of a new English edition of the New Testament, modernized and simplified. And the Bible is still making news for stamp collectors.

Recent Bulgarian release, above, honors Johannes Gutenberg, who printed the first Bible. Gutenberg also appeared on a 1939 German issue. Sweden issues two stamps in a single design commemorating the 400th anniversary of the first authorized version of the Bible in Swedish. The stamp shows the translators, Olaus Petri and Laurentius Petri, presenting the Bible to King Gustavus Vasa.

Hungary paid similar philatelic honor to Gaspar Karolyi, translator of the Bible into Hungarian in the National Protestant Day issue of 1939. A 1935 Bulgarian stamp shows St. Cyril and St.
Methodius displaying the Bible to an assembled crowd.

The U. S. Washington Inaugural issue shows a Bible, upon which the first President took his oath.
A Vatican issue of 1936 presents
an allegory of Church and the Bible.

By the time the projected air force of 50,000 planes is delivered to the government, the American petroleum industry will be able to supply the 17,400,000 barrels of 42 gallons each required by the armed services.

A Washington Daybook

By JACK STINNETT

(This is the first of a series of three articles on the farmer and national defense.)

WASHINGTON—What the war, national defense and the lend-lease program are doing to the American farmer is one of the strangest paradoxes in this strangest of all world situations.

On one hand, the real or potential world markets which mean the difference between a fair living and poverty to the growers of our "surplus" crops (principally cotton, tobacco and wheat) have been wiped out.

On the other hand, such a demand for other farm products is being created that it is quite possible thousands of American farmers are entering a new era. It won't be an era of "sky's-the-limit" prosperity, but officials believe it should be one of decent living and fair return. And if the Department of Agriculture carries out its present aims, this era won't be followed by black depression, dust storms and starving Joaks such as came in the wake of the World War.

Surpluses Piling Up

TO TAKE the gloomy side first:
In recent years about half of some of our types of tobacco, 20 per cent of our cotton, 20 to 50 per cent of some fruits and five per cent of our wheat were sold abroad.

Normally about 2,000,000 farm
folk depended for their livelihood on farm products sold to continental Europe and another 2,000-000 depended on farm products
sold to the United Kingdom.
According to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, the value of farm products exported in the six months ending in February of this year amounted to only $155-000,000—compared with $489,000-000 in the corresponding six months a year earlier the first six months of the war. Until just recently, farm exports continued to hang around that all-time low level to which they plunged soon after the collapse of France a year ago.

The surpluses and prospective crops of wheat, cotton and tobacco are staggering. When the new-crop cotton starts moving to market, it is estimated the old-crop surplus will be nearly 14-000,000 bales—almost enough to supply domestic and foreign demands if not an ounce of cotton were picked until 1942. The wheat supply for the coming season is estimated by Secretary of Agriculture Wickard at 1,236,000,000 bushels, with consumption and exports recently averaging 755-000,000 bushels. A department expert who should know told me
the other day that tobacco exports had dropped to their lowest level since before the Civil War.

But Prices Are At Peak

THESE facts and figures make Joe Farmer's future look about as bright as that of an ice cream salesman in Antarctica, but these facts and figures don't tell all.
In the first place, cotton and tobacco (and peanut) farmers already have voted curtailed marketing quotas which will reduce the size of these crops this year.
The wheat farmers vote May 31.
Although there is no certainty
how they will cast their ballots,
if they vote as some agriculture department officials predict it will give the department control of wheat marketing quotas for the first time.

In the second place, prices actually received by farmers recently reached the highest level since the war started. The reasons were fourfold: (1) Proposed government price supporting measures to stimulate production of hogs, dairy and poultry products;
(2) trade expectations that government loan rates will be increased on cotton, corn, wheat, tobacco and rice; (3) prospective lend-lease purchases of farm products (estimated around half a billion dollars); (4) increased consumer buying power.

is being improved by national defense.)

THE RED CROSS NEEDS HELP

The local group making surgical dressings for the Red Cross is seriously handicapped because of lack of workers and those in charge are making a special appeal to all women in Warren who can possibly do so lend their services in the most worthy activity.

The urgency of the project is emphasized in the following excerpts from a letter received by Mrs. Louis Jamieson, Warren County Chairman of Surgical Dressings, from Walter Davidson at National Headquarters of the American Red Cross in Washington:

"When the Red Cross accepted a quota of forty million surgical dressings for the United States Army, it was agreed that these were to be completed by June 30th. We hope therefore that chapters taking part in this program will be able to complete the dressings by that time. We do not wish to have any of our chapters that have taken part in the surgical dressings program either for war relief or for the United States Army disband or dismantle their workrooms as the call for another may come at any time."

The Warren county quota is 10,800 surgical dressings of which only 1,500 have been completed over a period of six weeks. In order to complete the remainder of the quota by June 30th the number of workers must be increased fourfold.

Mothers, relatives and friends of our boys in the service should be interested particularly in this work as a large percentage of these dressings are sent to United States Army camps.

The surgical dressing group works at room 501 in the Warren Savings Bank and Trust Company building from ten until twelve and from two to four on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. The room is also open from seven until nine on Monday and Thursday evenings.

Workers are advised that they should wear washable dresses or smocks with long sleeves while engaged in making dressings. Uniforms are not required.

Your help is needed!

OUR COOKING SCHOOL

The Times-Mirror takes genuine pride and pleasure in extending a cordial welcome to the women of Warren and vicinity to attend the annual Cooking School which will open tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock at the Y. W. C. A. activities building, with the nationally known culinary expert, Mrs. Katherine Baldrige, as the lecturer in charge.

Mrs. Baldrige understands the feminine instinct for culinary creation. She knows that successful cooking is expressing a talent as great as any artist. It is an even greater gift than the other arts, in the estimation of this sympathetic food authority, for the expert cook builds sturdy bodies, capable of sterner resistance to fatigue and disease.

Knowing that new interest from the cook means new variety in the home, Mrs. Baldrige will among other things, stress unexpected surprises in color, seasoning, table service and decoration, intended to tempt the lazy appetite and bring plates rushing back for that flattering second helping.

In planning the School, this year as in the past, the Times-Mirror has received excellent co-operation from local merchants and other business establishments, for which we are extremely grateful.

The death of John C. Harrington, Sr., highly-respected Irvine citizen and popular Pennsylvania railroad employee for over a half a century, brings sadness to the hearts of many throughout the area. He was a man of fine qualities, a devoted parent and loyal friend. To the sorely bereaved family the community extends its deepest sympathy in a great loss.

According to reports from nearby sections that fog blanket Sunday morning prevented the borough from experiencing a hard frost. Motorists report the roofs were white between Russell and Frewsburg early yesterday morning.

Aside to the men folk: If the wife happens to be late with dinner during the next few days don't grumble. She'll probably be taking lessons at the cooking school.

And this was an ideal wash day!

EDSON IN WASHINGTON

BY PETER EDSON
Times-Mirror Washington Correspondent

Washington, May 19—It isn't just in the country at large, outside the District of Columbia, that people are confused, wondering what's coming next, wondering who's leading whom where and what for. The whispering gallery that is Washington is as full of uncertainties as a Molotov breadbasket.

There are unofficial, self-appointed experts at every luncheon and dinner table who know exactly why Hess went to Scotland, five minutes after he landed, who profess to know the exact status of the convoy issue, who say they have the real, inside straight dope on what Stimson meant in his last speech, and who can tell you exactly what kind of little green apples the President ate that gave him his current belly ache. Move over to another eating symposium, however, and you get an entirely different set of answers. The only conclusion is that lots of people in Washington also don't know what they're talking about, either.

Out of the wallow of conversation over the postponement of the President's Pan-American speech, however, has come one interesting idea. The President, it was argued, didn't want to declare for or against convoys. Two weeks later the situation might be changed so that he could speak out.

The question is therefore raised as to what extent the stall has become a matter of policy, or at least to what extent it has become an American diplomatic device, and how effectively it has been wielded by the President. He has built up a reputation as a forthright leader with the chin, but the record tends to show that on those occasions when he has come out of his corner, jaw first on some issue, way ahead of his seconds and public, he has taken a terrific pasting. The Supreme Court reform, NRA, the purge and Yugoslavians come to mind, to name four.

The whole problem resolves itself into this all-important matter of timing. Try to start a fight before the bell rings and you're a punk. Stall a little, particularly if your opponent is stronger than you are, and perhaps he'll show his weakness.

How effective has the stall been as a matter of policy? Plenty of people have been arguing that the President should come right out and tell the country whether or not we are to have convoys. Supposing the President said no, we won't convoy. That would be as good as a major victory for Hitler. Supposing he said yes, we'll convoy, with a majority of the country not yet convinced conveying is the thing to do, with the President himself on record that convoys mean shooting and shooting means war, with even Secretary of War Stimson admitting that we won't be ready for war for a year. In that predicament, is a stall justified or is it not?

The question is posed here not in any defense of dilly-dallied, but merely to present the arguments. The question of when to show strength—the old question of timing again—is one that has to be nicely determined. A case can be made for the claim that there is a big advantage now in keeping Hitler guessing as to what American policy will be, when the bid of greater American support for Britain will be made, and how much it will be.

That the raise will be forthcoming eventually seems inevitable. It will be made only when there is more yelling for it from the coun-

STORIES IN STAMPS

Bible Has Important Place in Philately

THE Bible—the world's perennial best-seller—makes news again with the release by Roman Catholic hierarchy of a new English edition of the New Testament, modernized and simplified. And the Bible is still making news for stamp collectors.

Recent Bulgarian release, above, honors Johannes Gutenberg, who printed the first Bible. Gutenberg also appeared on a 1939 German issue. Sweden issues two stamps in a single design commemorating the 400th anniversary of the first authorized version of the Bible in Swedish. The stamp shows the translators, Olaus Petri and Laurentius Petri, presenting the Bible to King Gustavus Vasa.

Hungary paid similar philatelic honor to Gaspar Karolyi, translator of the Bible into Hungarian in the National Protestant Day issue of 1939. A 1936 Bulgarian stamp shows St. Cyril and St. Methodius displaying the Bible to an assembled crowd.

The U. S. Washington Inaugural issue shows a Bible, upon which the first President took his oath. A Vatican issue of 1936 presents an allegory of Church and the Bible.

By the time the projected air force of 50,000 planes is delivered to the government, the American petroleum industry will be able to supply the 17,400,000 barrels (of 42 gallons each) required by the armed services.

A Washington Daybook

By JACK STINNETT

(This is the first of a series of three articles on the farmer and national defense.)

WASHINGTON—What the war, national defense and the lend-lease program are doing to the American farmer is one of the strangest paradoxes in this strangest of all world situations.

On one hand, the real or potential world markets which mean the difference between a fair living and poverty to the growers of our "surplus" crops (principally cotton, tobacco and wheat) have been wiped out.

On the other hand, such a demand for other farm products is being created that it is quite possible that a new era of American farmers are entering a new era. It won't be an era of "sky's-the-limit" prosperity, but officials believe it should be one of decent living and fair return. And if the Department of Agriculture carries out its present aims, this era won't be followed by black depression, dust storms and starving Joads such as came in the wake of the World War.

Surpluses Piling Up

TO TAKE the gloomy side first: In recent years about half of some of our types of tobacco, 20 per cent of our cotton, 20 to 50 per cent of some fruits and five per cent of our wheat were sold abroad.

Normally about 2,000,000 farm folk depended for their livelihood on farm products sold to continental Europe and another 2,000,000 depended on farm products sold to the United Kingdom.

According to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, the value of farm products exported in the six months ending in February of this year amounted to only $155,000,000—compared with $489,000,000 in the corresponding six months a year earlier (the first six months of the war). Until just recently, farm exports continued to hang around that all-time low level to which they plunged soon after the collapse of France a year ago.

The surpluses and prospective crops of wheat, cotton and tobacco are staggering. When the new-crop cotton starts moving to market, it is estimated the old-crop surplus will be nearly 14,000,000 bales—almost enough to supply domestic and foreign demands if not an ounce of cotton were needed until 1942. The wheat supply for the coming season is estimated by Secretary of Agriculture Wickard at 1,236,000,000 bushels, with consumption and exports recently averaging 755,000,000 bushels. A department expert who should know told me the other day that tobacco exports had dropped to their lowest level since before the Civil War.

But Prices Are At Peak

THESE facts and figures make Joe Farmer's future look about as bright as that of an ice cream salesman in Antarctica, but these facts and figures don't tell all.

In the first place, cotton and tobacco (and peanut) farmers already have voted curtailed marketing quotas which will reduce the size of these crops this year. The wheat farmers vote May 31. Although there is no certainty how they will cast their ballots, if they vote as some agriculture department officials predict it will give the marketing control of wheat marketing quotas for the first time.

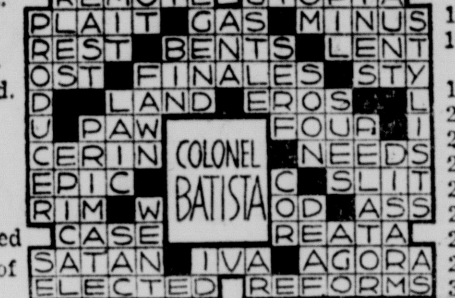

In the second place, prices actually received by farmers recently reached the highest level were fourfold: (1) Proposed government price supporting measures to stimulate production of hogs, dairy and poultry products; (2) trade expectations that government loan rates will be increased on cotton, corn, wheat, tobacco and rice; (3) prospective lease purchases of farm products (estimated around half a billion dollars); (4) increased consumer buying power.

(Next: How the farm situation is being improved by national defense.)

Warren County Selective Service
Trainees Go to Camp Lee, Virginia

Sixteen of the nineteen Warren county young men who were sent to Pittsburgh last Friday afternoon for final examinations prior to induction into the U. S. Army for a year's training under the Selective Service system were accepted Saturday and sent to Camp Lee, Virginia, according to word received here today.

This was the last contingent to be sent to Pittsburgh under the present system. Hereafter, local men will go to Erie for final examination at least 10 days prior to their call for induction.

According to the information received here, those rejected Saturday are William H. Shorts, of Warren, who was in the group sent by Local Board No. 1; Paul L. Pfeffer, of R. D. 1, Harmony, Pa., and Charles H. Snyder, of Corry, R. D. 2, who were sent by Local Board No. 2 today called attention to the fact that in the list of selectees printed on Saturday, the name of Theron L. Johnson, of Youngsville, should have been included and that of Parker D. Hodak, of Spring Creek, should not have been included, as he was not sent for induction with the group on Friday.

Each of the two local draft boards sent out fifty additional classification questionnaires on Saturday. Those sent by Local Board No. 1 went to registrars with order numbers from 1440 to 1490, inclusive, while those sent by Local Board No. 2 had numbers from 1426 to 1475, inclusive.

Those who received their questionnaires from Local Board No. 1 are as follows:

Virginia Ann Schuler-Isaac R. Slingerland Wed Saturday, Leave for Indianapolis Home

Spring flowers, mountain laurel grouped about a gold cross on the altar, and tall white candles were used to decorate the North Warren Presbyterian church Saturday evening for the 7:30 o'clock wedding of Virginia Ann Schuler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Schuler of North Warren, and Isaac Ray Slingerland, of Indianapolis, Ind., son of Mrs. Bess Slingerland of Troy.

Coronation Dey, soloist, sang "At Dawning by Cadman" and "O Pious Me" by DeKoven. Mrs. Watson-Johnson, at the organ, played Nevins' "Venetian Love Song" and "I Love You Truly." "My Prayer," Schuler's "Seven-able" and "The Ceremony," Schuler's "Ave Maria," also the Wagner and Mendelssohn wedding marches.

Mr. Schuler gave his daughter a diamond ring and a sapphire brooch. She was wearing a white tulle gown with a long veil of English tulle. Her carriage bouquet was of white gardenias, Broomfield roses and sweet peas and she held also a small, satin-covered Bible which her father carried in the World War in France.

Mrs. Robert Smith was her sister's escort of honor. With a frock of yellow taffeta, matching the bride's blue trim and yellow lace mitts, she carried a cascade bouquet of roses and sweet peas. Others in the bridal party were the maid of honor, Helen Huck of North Warren; bridesmaids, Jane Ward of North Warren, and Mrs. Kenneth Anderson, of Lakewood, N. Y., all wearing peach mott with matching ruffled caps and lace mitts and carrying colonial bouquets of yellow daisies and blue sweet peas. The little flower girl, Jo Ann Slingerland, of Troy, wore yellow taffeta, matching bonnet with blue trim and carried a basket of flower petals.

Mrs. Schuler wore beige silk and a red rose corsage and Mrs. Slingerland wore navy crepe and gardenias.

Robert Slingerland, of Troy, was his brother's best man and ushers were another brother, Wilbur Slingerland, Richmond Bailey and Leon Ballard, of Troy; Gerald Vickery, Columbia Cross Roads.

Guests numbering 150 were invited for the reception held immediately after the ceremony at the American Legion Home. The bride's table held a wedding cake decorated with spring flowers, a centerpiece of lilies of the valley and blue forget-me-nots, and white candles in silver candelabra. Similar decorations were used on the buffet table from which other guests were served.

Guests included Mrs. Bess Slingerland, Florence Slingerland, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Slingerland, and children, Wilbur Slingerland, Mrs. T. S. Edington, Rex Brown, Mr. and Mrs. O. Rockwell, Mr. and Mrs. R. Morris G. Scoggsburg, Gerald Vickery, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Ballard and R. Bailey, of Troy; Mrs. Howard Buell, Erie; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Anderson, Lakewood; Mr. and Mrs. Mac Shearman and daughter, Allegheny, N. Y.; Betty Foust, Grandville Summit; Eldridge Mudge, Mansfield; Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Anderson and daughter, Kane.

The bride, graduate of Warren High School, was employed by the New Process Company. Mr. Slingerland, alumnus of Albright College, is now employed by United Cooperatives Inc., at Indianapolis, where they will make their home following a short wedding trip. For traveling, the bride chose a navy and white silk suit with matching accessories and wore a Broomfield rose corsage.

She has been faced at many parties, her hostesses including Mrs. Anderson, of Lakewood; Constance Dey and Eleanor Sharpe; Mrs. Archie Shannon, Mrs. Russell Dietrich, Mrs. Kenneth Barrett, Mrs. James Barrett, Joyce Anderson and Mrs. Lucy Hammerbeck; Jane Ward, Helen Huck, Mrs. J. H. Cruickshank and Mrs. Watson Jamieson. Mrs. George Cowden, Mrs. Richard Smith, Mrs. John Thayer, a buffet luncheon was served by the bride's mother to the bridal party and out of town guests following the rehearsal.

Kanoagoa Chapter Holds May Meeting With Mrs. Conarro

The May meeting of Kanoagoa Chapter, National Society, Daughters of the American Colonists, was held at the home of Mrs. H. W. Conarro Friday afternoon, with the report, Mrs. Charles F. Sill, presiding.

Several members who had spent the winter in Florida were welcomed home; two new members, Mrs. E. B. Whiting and Mrs. Alice Newmaker, were officially received, their genealogical records having been approved by the National Society at Washington.

Memorial tributes to the two members deceased since the last meeting were fittingly given; Miss Anna Snyder paid deserved tribute to Mrs. Ida A. Small and Mrs. F. C. Eaton spoke for the chapter in remembrance of Mrs. H. A. Kitchen. These memorials were transcribed in the records and sent to the families of the deceased.

Mrs. L. L. Hunter and Mrs. H. R. Hawkey, of Tidouite, delegate and alternate, respectively, to the 20th General Assembly of the National Society held in Washington April 19-21, gave reports of the proceedings.

A carefully prepared and interesting paper on "Colonial Toys and Games" was given by Mrs. Edward W. Greene, of Castile, N. Y., an applicant whose papers with 25 supplements are in process of verification.

The hostess, Mrs. Conarro, assisted by her committee, Mrs. A. N. McCausland, Miss Olive Taylor and Mrs. Elbert Smith, served a buffet luncheon with beautiful appointments, spring flowers being used in abundance for decoration.

The summer activities will be of unusual interest; the July meeting is by invitation of Mrs. August Morck to be held at her suburban estate Chamor outside of Oil City; and Mrs. John R. B. will entertain at an August gathering at her summer home in Corydon.

Zontians to Hear Fredonia Professor

Local members of the Zonta Club have been invited to attend the Dunkirk-Fredonia Club installation dinner at the Shorewood Country Club at Dunkirk next Saturday evening.

Dr. B. E. Holaday, assistant professor of education at the Fredonia Normal School, will be the guest speaker, taking for his topic "Ink Spots".

Those from here who expect to attend the party are reminded that they must make reservations no later than Wednesday with the club president, Mrs. Nancy Ellen Parvin, or with Miss Ann Snyder.

WHY TAKE BLOOD PRESSURE?

There is no diagnostic procedure which gives the doctor more information about his middle-aged patient than an accurate blood pressure determination.

The trained physician can learn the condition of the arteries, heart action, and detect symptoms of many diseases, only successfully treated in their early stages, such as Bright's disease, toxic goiter, a tendency toward apoplexy.

Low blood pressure is not particularly frequent or serious, and is an indication of some debilitating condition. It is also true of high blood pressure that it is a symptom—not a disease. The way to cure high blood pressure is to prevent it by regular general examinations, so that any beginning increase may be detected in time to do something about it.

Kanoagoa Chapter Holds May Meeting With Mrs. Conarro

The May meeting of Kanoagoa Chapter, National Society, Daughters of the American Colonists, was held at the home of Mrs. H. W. Conarro Friday afternoon, with the regent, Mrs. Charles F. Sill, presiding.

Several members who had spent the winter in Florida were welcomed home; two new members, Mrs. E. B. Whiting and Mrs. Alice Newmaker, were officially received, their genealogical records having been approved by the National Society at Washington.

Memorial tributes to the two members deceased since the last meeting were fittingly given; Miss Anna Snyder paid deserved tribute to Mrs. Ida A. Small and Mrs. F. C. Eaton spoke for the chapter in remembrance of Mrs. H. A. Kitchen. These memorials were transcribed in the records and sent to the families of the deceased.

Mrs. L. L. Hunter and Mrs. H. R. Hawkey, of Tidouite, delegate and alternate, respectively, to the 20th General Assembly of the National Society held in Washington April 19-21, gave reports of the proceedings.

A carefully prepared and interesting paper on "Colonial Toys and Games" was given by Mrs. Edward W. Greene, of Castle, N. Y., an applicant whose papers, with 25 supplementals are in process of verification.

The hostess, Mrs. Conarro, assisted by her committee, Mrs. A. N. McCausland, Miss Olive Taylor and Mrs. Elbert Smith, served a buffet luncheon with beautiful appointments, spring flowers being used in abundance for decoration.

The summer activities will be of unusual interest; the July meeting is by invitation of Mrs. August Morck to be held at her suburban estate Chamor outside of Oil City; and Mrs. John Reid will entertain at an August gathering at her summer home in Corydon.

Simple Ceremony at First Methodist Church
Unites Marian E. Koebly-Blaine M. Meade

Marian E. Koebly daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Koebly, 109 Myrtle street, and Blain M. Meade, son of Paul Meade, of Clarendon, were married at 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the First Methodist church by Dr. T. E. Colley.

Palms and baskets of white gladioli were used in artistic decorations. Miss Emil Jacobson, organist, played "Chant d'Amour" by Gillette, "At Dawn" by Cadman and, during the service, "O Perfect Love" by Barnby. She was accompanied, also for the solo, "O Promise Me" by Dekoven, sung by Mrs. Hazel Merenick, and played the traditional Wagner and Mendelssohn wedding music.

The bride wore an aqua street dress with beige and brown accessories and a shoulder corsage of white gardenias. Her only attendant was her sister, Miss Elaine Koebly, who wore a flock of dusty pink, navy accessories and a shoulder corsage of white gardenias.

The bride's mother wore a black and white ensemble, black accessories and a shoulder corsage of red roses. Mrs. Howard Magee, aunt of the bridegroom, wore navy with navy accessories.

Gail Meade was his brother's best man and ushers were Charles Koebly, brother of the bride, and Ellsworth Johnson, the latter of Bradford.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception for 75 guests was held in Dunham parlors of the church. The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake topped with miniature bride and groom flanked with white tape in crystal holders. Presiding were Miss Thelma Christensen and Miss Velma Nason.

Among the guests were the following from away: Mr. and Mrs. Stearns, Harford and daughters, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Faulk, of Jamestown, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Johnson, Bradford.

Later, the couple left for a southern wedding trip and will be at home to their friends after May 26, at 105 Myrtle street. Both young people are well known locally, the bride being graduated from the local high school and employed by the G. C. Murphy Company. Mr. Meade is associated in the oil business.

Among those who entertained for the bride-elect were Mrs. Lucille McKelvey; Mrs. Alan Koebly and Mrs. Esmond Koebly club members at the home of Mrs. Nelie Frederickson; employees of the G. C. Murphy Company, another club with a dinner at the Y. W. C. A.

Appearance of New 1941 Ranges
Catches Eye of Every Housewife

When women glimpse the new 1941 gas ranges it's a case of love at first sight, and understandably so. For never before were gas ranges more beautiful than they are this year. But ranges should not be bought—any more than husbands should be chosen—for appearance alone.

Not that appearance isn't important. After all, our first judgment is based on appearance. Certainly the simple pleasing lines of the new gas ranges give a flattering distinction to any type of kitchen, old, remodeled or newly planned with close regard for working areas.

Amazing New Type Broilers
Now to go deeper into the new behavior of these marvelous ranges. Take broiling which for years has been cookery's step-child. A few years ago broiler pans were difficult to handle, awkward to clean, and the job of broiling was accompanied by so much smoke and spattering fat. As a result, only the brave attempted it.

Did you know that broiling doesn't have to fill the house with smoke? Hot fat, of course, makes the smoke, so practically every modern gas range has some kind of smokeless broiler pan having a fairly solid rack with openings to allow the fat to run into a pan below. Because no fat comes in contact with the flame, there is no smoke.

Several ranges show application of the heat radiation principle in the broiler. The heat of the flame is intensified by radiants which speed up the broiling process and seal in the delicate flavors and juices by quickly searing the food. Broiling Preserves Flavor
Broiling preserves even the most delicate flavors. Even a very home-spun menu may become inspired if built around an imaginative broiled combination. The trick of broiling is easy. Pre-heat the broiler compartment five to ten minutes, depending on its type, and have the food at 1/2 inch from the tip of the flame. The length of broiling time depends upon the kind of heat, thickness and degree of "doneness" desired.

Extra Heavy Insulation
The heavy insulation of modern gas ranges means not only that costs of operation are lower, but that baking and roasting may be done as freely and comfortably in summer as in winter. It also means lower operating costs. And of course the even heat distribution means perfect baking results. All the new ovens are properly vented to permit air circulation in the oven while food is baking eliminating any intermingling of flavors.

Automatic Temperature Controls
Automatic temperature controls are standard equipment on practically all the new gas ranges. And since baking and roasting nowadays are done so universally by time and temperature, it is a pleasure to be able to pop a cake or roast in the oven at the proper temperature and forget about it until time is up.

Numerous changes have also been made in the top burners of modern gas ranges. Newly designed burners are more economical of fuel and are easier to clean than the old types. Burners with simultaneous unit are built with two aims in view to facilitate speed of cooking or to maintain a low cooking temperature at minimum cost. The low controlled heat simplifies the cooking of vegetables and allows one to do so-called waterless cooking.

Burners are arranged in all sorts of patterns for every need—a row across the back, four-square left or right, or two on either side of a working surface.

TWO MEN ARRESTED

Two men were arrested and arraigned before Justice of the Peace T. M. Greenleaf over the taking on charges of intoxication. One paid a fine of $10 and the other was sentenced to thirty days in the county jail.

According to latest army figures, 39 per cent of its cadets with no previous flight training are washed out while only 16 per cent of those with CPT flight training are disqualified.

Simple Ceremony at First Methodist Church
Unites Marian E. Koebley-Blaine M. Meade

Marian E. Koebley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Koebley, 109 Myrtle street, and Blaine M. Meade, son of Paul Meade, of Clarendon, were married at 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon in the First Methodist church by Dr. T. E. Colley.

Palm and baskets of white gladioli were used in artistic decorations. Mrs. Emil Jacobson, organist, played "Chant d'Amour" by Gillette, "At Dawning" by Cadman and, during the service, "O Perfect Love" by Barnby. She was accompanied, also, for the solo, "O Promise Me" by DeKoven, sung by Mrs. Hazel Merenick; and played the traditional Wagner and Mendelssohn wedding music.

The bride wore an aqua street dress with beige and brown accessories and a shoulder corsage of white gardenias. Her only attendant was her sister, Miss Elaine Koebley, who wore a frock of dusty pink, navy accessories and a shoulder corsage of white gardenias.

The bride's mother wore a black and white ensemble, black accessories and a shoulder corsage of red roses. Mrs. Howard Magee, aunt of the bridegroom, wore navy with navy accessories.

Gail Meade was his brother's best man and ushers were Charles Koebley, brother of the bride, and Ellsworth Johnson, the latter of Bradford.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception for 75 guests was held in Dunham parlors of the church. The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake topped with miniature bride and groom in crystal holders. Presiding were Miss Thelma Christensen and Miss Velma Nason.

Among the guests were the following from away: Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Harford and daughters and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Faulk, of Jamestown, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Johnson, Bradford.

Later, the couple left for a southern wedding trip and will be at home to their friends and relatives at 105 Myrtle street. Both young people are well known locally, the bride being graduated from the local high school and employed by the G. C. Murphy Company. Mr. Meade is associated in the oil business.

Among those who entertained for the bride-elect were Mrs. Lucille McKelvey; Mrs. Alan Koebley and Mrs. Esmond Koebley; club members at the home of Mrs. Nellie Frederickson; employees of the G. C. Murphy Company; another club, with a dinner at the Y. W. C. A.

Appearance of New 1941 Ranges
Catches Eye of Every Housewife

When women glimpse the new 1941 gas ranges it's a case of love at first sight, and understandably so. For never before were gas ranges more beautiful than they are this year. But ranges should not be bought—any more than husbands should be chosen—for appearance alone.

Not that appearance isn't important. After all, our first judgment is based on appearance. Certainly the simple pleasing lines of the new gas ranges give a flattering distinction to any type of kitchen, old, remodeled or newly planned with close regard for working areas.

Amazing New Type Broilers
Now to go deeper into the new behavior of these marvelous ranges. Take broiling which for years has been cookery's step-child. A few years ago broiler pans were difficult to handle, awkward to clean, and the job of broiling was accompanied by so much smoke and spattering fat. As a result, only the brave attempted it.

Did you know that broiling doesn't have to fill the house with smoke? Hot fat, of course, makes the smoke, so practically every modern gas range has some kind of smokeless broiler pan having a fairly solid rock with openings to allow the fat to run into a pan below. Because no fat comes in contact with the flame, there is no smoke.

Several ranges show application of the heat radiation principle in the broiler. The heat of the flame is intensified by radiants which speed up the broiling process and seal in the delicate flavors and juices by quickly searing the food.

Broiling Preserves Flavor
Broiling preserves even the most delicate flavors. Even a very home-spun menu may become inspired if built around an imaginative broiled combination. The trick of broiling is easy. Pre-heat the broiler compartment five to ten minutes, depending on its type, and have the food at 1/2 inch from the tip of the flame. The length of broiling time depends upon the kind of meat, thickness and degree of "doneness" desired.

Extra Heavy Insulation
The heavy insulation of modern gas ranges means not only that costs of operation are lower, but that baking and roasting may be done as freely and comfortably in summer as in winter. It also means lower operating costs. And of course the even heat distribution means perfect baking results. All the new ovens are properly vented to permit air circulation in the oven while food is baking, eliminating any intermingling of flavors.

Automatic Temperature Controls
Automatic temperature controls are standard equipment on practically all the new gas ranges. And since baking and roasting nowadays are done so universally by time and temperature, it is a pleasure to be able to pop a cake or roast in the oven at the proper temperature and forget about it until time is up.

Numerous changes have also been made in the top burners of modern gas ranges. Newly designed burners are more economical of fuel and are easier to clean than the old types. Burners with simmer units are built with two aims in view to facilitate speed of cooking or to maintain a low cooking temperature at minimum cost. The low controlled heat simplifies the cooking of vegetables and allows one to do so-called waterless cooking.

Burners are arranged in all sorts of patterns for every need—a row across the back, four-square left or right, or two on either side of a working surface.

TWO MEN ARRESTED

Two men were arrested and arraigned before Justice of the Peace T. M. Greenland over the weekend on charges of intoxication. One paid a small fine and the other was sentenced to thirty days in the county jail.

According to latest army figures, 39 per cent of its cadets with no previous flight training are washed out, while only 16 per cent of those with CPTP flight training are disqualified.

LITTLEFIELD IS WINNER OF CITY 'MEGS' TOURNEY

Out of the field of seven survivors from grade school competition in the borough, Gerry Littlefield, of South street school, bettered all others Saturday afternoon on the South Side playground to win the city marble tournament sponsored by the Warren Rotary Club and the Y. M. C. A.

The eliminations found three rings of thirteen marbles, two with two contestants and one with three. In the first match, Richard Grubbs, of Beatty school, defeated Paterniti, of St. Joseph's, 7 to 4 and 2 left. Littlefield won the second game from Swanson, East street school, and Ahlgren, of Jefferson school, 5 to 4 and 4. And the third go saw Ted Austin, McClintock school, win over Virgil Zobrest, of Lacy school, 7 to 1 and 5 left.

In the finals, which had three entries, Grubbs and Littlefield ended in a deadlock, forcing a playoff. All of the seven youngsters received medals for being respective school champions, and Littlefield will be sent to Hershey, Pa., where he will compete in the state finals, June 15-19.

LITTLEFIELD IS WINNER OF CITY 'MEGS' TOURNEY

Out of the field of seven survivors from grade school competition in the borough, Gerry Littlefield, of South street school, bettered all others Saturday afternoon on the South Side playground to win the city marble tournament sponsored by the Warren Rotary Club and the Y. M. C. A.

Someday I'll Find You

BY MARGARET WIDEMER

Chapter 29
Quarrel

"WHAT are you asking me to get done?" Martin asked. It was a voice she hadn't heard, detached and businesslike.

"If you'd talk to her, or if that's too much bother, get your lawyer to. Or perhaps your mother would."

"Idea. Mother never objects to things because they're too much bother. She'd like to see you flying fur. Is your ultimate intention to get Violetta replaced in her job, Eileen?"

"I suppose that would be impossible, with Lewis at the head of things."

"Well, boards expect a man to handle things when they give him control, you know."

"I know," she said meekly. "Only thought perhaps you could get them to let her have the position she had got to in a few years now. And, maybe, if it isn't too much trouble."

"Skip it. Go on the principle that for once I'm willing to take trouble. To the extent, say, of five minutes with a telephone, or a checkbook."

The car jumped ahead. She looked at the profile beside her. Lips set tight, head reared angrily, color run up under the tan. She had not known that Martin could ever care about anything enough to lose his temper. Hers snapped up to meet it.

"All right, I will. She's going out with a black eye. Has Lewis given her testimonials or whatever people in her position get?"

"She'll get those—theoretically. All sorts of gilt-edged stuff. What will have to be fixed is the real underground story that filters out through—the board's feelings about her."

"I didn't know, I suppose that's harder."

"No. Personal interviews with key members."

"Perhaps your mother—"

"Or my nursemaid! Eileen, if it wouldn't chuck us into the em-bankment I'd slap you harder than you were ever slapped in your life."

"For heaven's sake, Martin, what are you?"

He said, suddenly relaxed and grinning. "What used to be called 'quarreling like man and wife.' I guess."

She said hotly. "That's a brutal reminder. Under the circumstances."

He shouted with laughter. "What did I say?"

In spite of the tears that had sprung to her eyes she found she was laughing hysterically herself. She checked this laughter. She said sharply. "How's Caroline?"

"Prettier than ever. Gone up-swept."

That ended that.

He said, after another of these silences that were getting more and more uncomfortable. "This is going to make Lewis annoyed with you. He likes to be seen eye to eye with you know. Want me to handle it on the quiet?"

"No, I don't."

"Well," said Martin, "that simplifies things. I can go to it straighter." He glanced at his wrist watch. "I'll long-distance him after luncheon. Hungry? I am."

Land proved to be the inn she remembered on their drive up to the Dane lodge. She had almost forgotten the ritual of waiters' devotion that was always loosed around Martin's kind. He ordered, as usual, perfectly. They made conversation across the little table. Quite pleasant conversation. Martin only had one cocktail. He never had taken much, she remembered. Probably because of his sporting record. Unlike the rest of him.

"You're silent as the grave," he said, "and waiting through. Come along, the fatal moment's arrived."

He had taken a room upstairs, as there was no pay box. He dropped into the armchair beside the bed-telephone stand to talk at his leisure. Eileen, at his gesture, perched on the bed beside him.

Action

HE LOOKED so bored, such a nice kid, that with the receiver against his ear, Eileen longed to go over and hug him. But she was too busy with the mouthpiece, that Eileen felt an irrational pang of pity. Irrational, for certainly playing Martin Dane was pretty crazy.

But if only his domineering father and grandfather, those hunting mother, had left him any job to do, he might be one of a match now for hard, brilliant, Lewis Delevan. Lewis had had the luck of having to fight for his own hand in a world where, right or wrong, you have to fight. Martin hadn't.

And so he would probably be a pushover for the first few convincing sentences Lewis would offer.

He had Lewis not directly by a number she had never heard.

"Hello, Lewis. . . . Feeling fine. Oh yes, we've been back a couple of weeks now. . . ."

What's all this about Violetta? Ah, my little secret. On information received. Reconsider it, will you, Lewis? . . . Nonsense. If we can keep a man like Goldstone, who's as red as a rose, we can stand Violetta Lee. . . . Rats, I'll take the risk of wrecking the foundation. . . . I'll go to the mat with the board, personally, if you like. . . . No. Her usefulness is not lost. . . . You can sell them cash set. You were mistaken—hardened. . . . No. I am not giving you any more reasons. Just a playboy's whim—backed by control of the sinews of war, old lead. . . . Do I? Thanks, Grandfather wasn't a bad old wolf, at least he always meant what he said. I'm just like him there. . . . Put it through in forty-eight hours. Delevan. . . . Call the emergency board meeting, then. Good-bye.

He clicked back the receiver and stood up. His face and whole bearing had that look of brilliant awakening to enjoyment and excitement she remembered seeing twice before. When she had risked her life to save Robin. And when he had, for amusement, risked his in that terrible Hawaiian surf.

For the moment he was the Martin Dane she had thought him when she first saw him.

She said, "Oh Martin, I can't tell you how grateful—"

"It's the other way about. I told you I'd know Violetta since I was a kid. Come along."

She followed him downstairs. He got her coat from the cloak-room and held it for her, and dropped her handbag into a deep pocket of his own.

He started the car again, in the same direction.

"Have we time to go farther?" she asked.

"Lots. You've nothing to do with the afternoon, have you? Let's make a day of it. I'll buy you a ticket down from anywhere you like."

Dream Drive

THERE was no good reason against it. It was colder this far upstate, but spring was in the bright sharp air. She'd never get a chance to do this any more. She drove on with him in a dream.

They talked a little or were silent, about anything or nothing. They had always been easy with each other. It had not changed.

"I've made good time," Martin said, and turned the car into a drive between high rough-barked gateposts. Up between green lawns, where snow patches still lingered. It was dark, but she could see a wide porch, and lights inside a stretch of living-room windows.

"Why, this isn't an inn—"

"Don't you know the lodge? Of course, though, it looks different. All snowed in when we left it."

He like and turned his latchkey and drew her into the long, freit pine-paneled room she remembered. She heard Ike's voice, talking to Mary in the kitchen.

She stopped her eyes on the big clock over the fireplace. Seven twenty.

"I telephoned Mary to have some food cooked," he said. "Come over to the fire, Eileen."

"I can't stop. I must get a train."

"Don't be foolish. Here's the time-table if you won't take my word for it. Two sleeper-expresses, a nine twenty and eleven something. Plenty of time to settle down and rest, and have something to eat. You remember it only takes like an hour in the station wagon, wild as we seem. Grandfather used to own a rail-way, so he just stuck in a curve and a station."

Again, why?

She went, when she had warmed herself, up to the room she had occupied before. It had a fire, there were fresh towels and a freshly set-out dressing table, as always, she supposed. She came down to find Martin, neatly brushed and rather quiet, waiting for her by a little table drawn near the hearth.

Ike's Mary, upright and pleasant and wary, came in and greeted them as she set dishes on the table. Ike's Mary by this time would be past being surprised at anything Martin might do, of course.

Martin, across from her, did not seem very hungry. He was talking more steadily than usual. If it had not been Martin, she would have said he was nervous. The odd aliveness had not left him. Finally he called Mary impatiently to clear and push back the table. He put Eileen on a cushioned couch alongside the fire and stood by her and said, "And now. . . ."

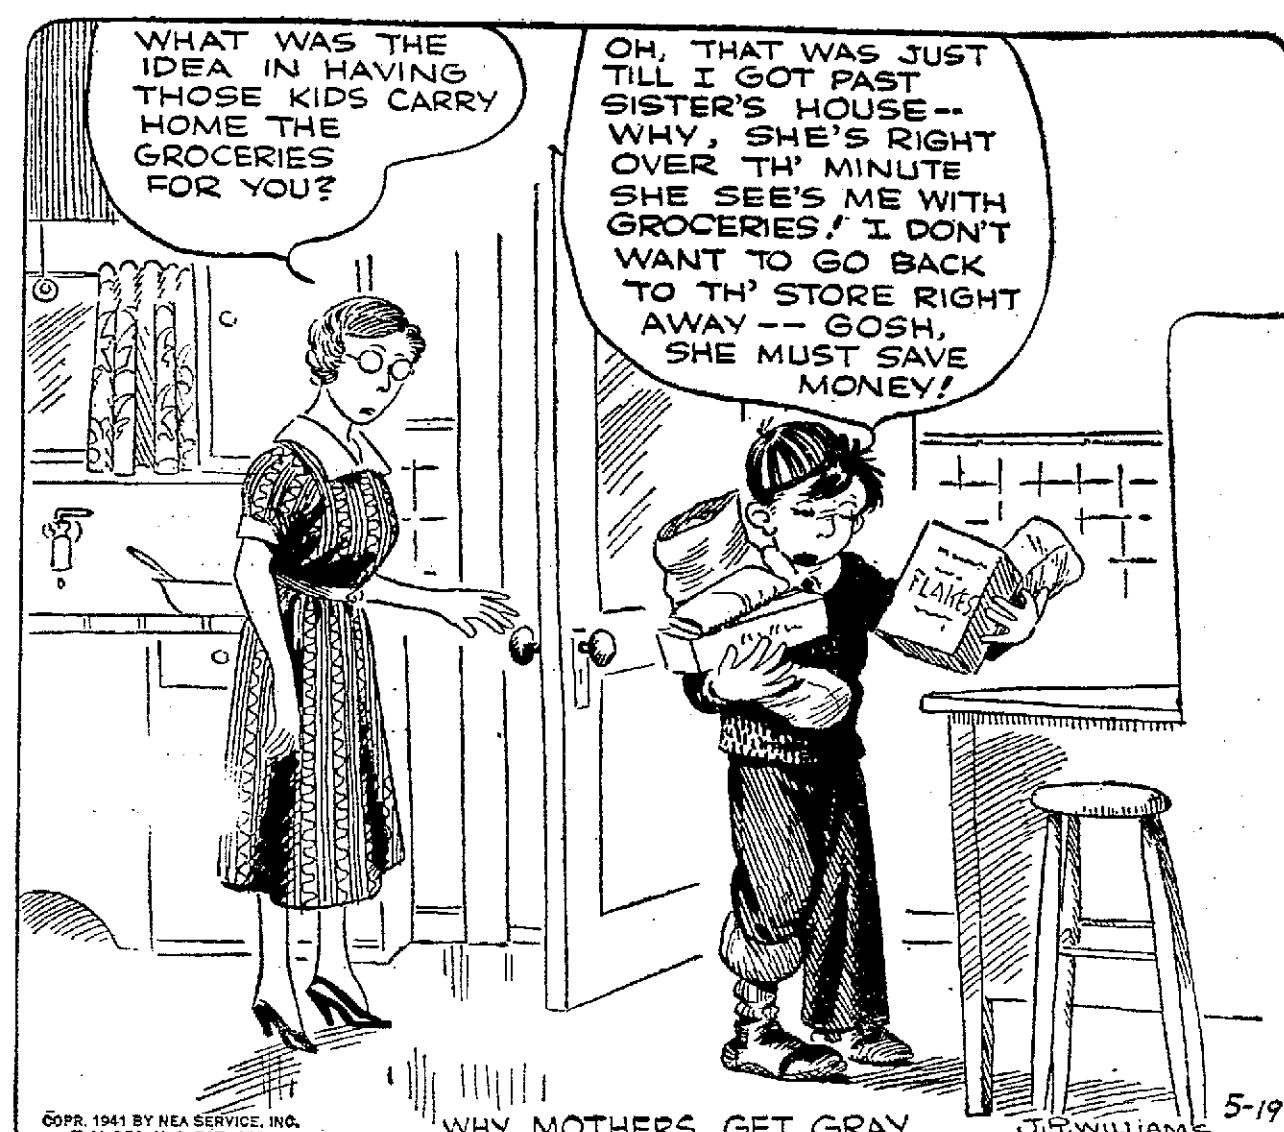

The end of his sentence was drowned by a thundering knock on the outside door. Before Mary could come back from the kitchen it was flung open.

Lewis Delevan, flushed and nearly hysterical with anger, burst in on them.

METZGER SALE ATTRACTS MANY CUSTOMERS SAT.

Saturday was a busy day at Metzger-Wright's 45th Anniversary Sale. Customers from nearby communities were noted throughout the day, taking advantage of the many values offered by the store.

Twenty-three of the little lilac tickets were found by those who took a few minutes to look in the merchandise where these tickets are hidden. Mrs. Harry Mintzer, 307 Pennsylvania avenue, west, received the beautiful $28.75 set of silver in its lovely chest.

Among the other gifts given away was a $6.50 Congoleum rug, which went to Mrs. John Gruber, of Russell, and a $5.95 bed spread to Mrs. Charles E. Miller, 19 Oak street.

Other gifts, which included hose, a quilt, cushions and umbrellas, went to the following: Miss Grace Bell, Miss Mary Ellen Mahood, Mrs. Kitty Smith, Mrs. Leslie Wolf, Mrs. Norman Pierce, Mrs. B. F. Duffy, Mrs. Edward Malec, Mrs. Frances Buck, Mrs. Donna Wright, Mrs. Gust Carlson, Mrs. Sadie Albaugh, of Warren, Mrs. Theresa Johnson, Mrs. Charles McNeal, of Sheffield; Mrs. J. Dorsey and Mrs. W. Burkhardt, of Clarendon, and Mrs. James Boyer, of Sugar Grove. Many fine gifts await finders of these lilac tickets during the last week of the sale.

The judges in the Lilac Tournament have not turned in their decision, but it will be announced in Tuesday's Times-Mirror. A number of beautiful entries were made in each of the four classifications.

Oscar Gustafson was leading in the Lilac Marathon, but the final figures of Saturday may change his percentage and another co-worker may be leading by Tuesday. Much interest is being shown in the Lilac Marathon, many customers waiting several minutes for their favorite salesperson so he or she might have credit for the sale.

SPECIAL COURT SESSION FIXED FOR JUNE 16TH

Because of the large number of cases which remain on the civil court docket here, a special session of common pleas court will be held by Judge D. U. Arnd during the week beginning Monday, June 16 it was announced today.

When court convened last Monday, Judge Arnd said today, there were fourteen cases listed and presumably ready for trial. For different reasons there were seven cases continued.

The principal reason that the number of these cases were not tried was because witnesses were absent and could not be reached, the judge stated. Some of the attorneys and litigants are anxious to have a number of these cases disposed of, he said.

Consequently, the prothonotary and jury commissioners have been notified to call the usual number of jurors to hold court during the week beginning June 16.

Says Mrs. Baldrige . . . . at

In Homogenized Milk the fat globules are smashed into extremely small bits, which remain quite separate, and these particles are so small that even after several days, there is only a slight movement of the fat toward the top of the bottle. And since the cream is evenly distributed throughout the bottle, the last glass will contain as much cream as the very first.

METZGER SALE ATTRACTS MANY CUSTOMERS SAT.

Saturday was a busy day at Metzger-Wright's 45th Anniversary Sale. Customers from nearby communities were noted throughout the day, taking advantage of the many values offered by the store.

Twenty-three of the little lilac tickets were found by those who took a few minutes to look in the merchandise where these tickets are hidden. Mrs. Harry Metzger, 307 Pennsylvania avenue, west, received the beautiful $28.75 set of silver in its lovely chest.

Among the other gifts given away was a $6.50 Congoleum rug, which went to Mrs. John Gruber, of Russell, and a $5.95 bed spread to Mrs. Charles E. Miller, 19 Oak street.

Other gifts, which included hose, a quilt, cushions and umbrellas, went to the following: Miss Grace Bell, Miss Mary Ellen Mahood, Mrs. Kitty Smith, Mrs. Leslie Wolf, Mrs. Norman Pierce, Mrs. E. F. Duffy, Mrs. Edward Malec, Mrs. Frances Buck, Mrs. Donna Wright, Mrs. Gust Carlson, Mrs. Sadie Albaugh, of Warren; Mrs. Theresa Johnson, Mrs. Charles McNeal, of Sheffield; Mrs. J. Dorsey and Mrs. W. Burkhardt, of Clarendon, and Mrs. James E. Boyer, of Sugar Grove. Many fine gifts await finders of these lilac tickets during the last week of the sale.

The judges in the Lilac Tournament have not turned in their decision, but it will be announced in Tuesday's Times-Mirror. A number of beautiful entries were made in each of the four classifications.

Oscar Gustafson was leading in the Lilac Marathon, but the final figures of Saturday may change his percentage and another co-worker may be leading by Tuesday. Much interest is being shown in the Lilac Marathon, many customers waiting several minutes for their favorite salesperson so he or she might have credit for the sale.

SPECIAL COURT SESSION FIXED FOR JUNE 16TH

Because of the large number of cases which remain on the civil court docket here, a special session of common pleas court will be held by Judge D. U. Arndt during the week beginning Monday, June 16 it was announced today.

When court convened last Monday, Judge Arndt said today, there were fourteen cases listed and presumably ready for trial. For different reasons there were seven cases continued.

The principal reason that the number of these cases were not tried was because witnesses were absent and could not be reached, the judge stated. Some of the attorneys and litigants are anxious to have a number of these cases disposed of, he said.

Consequently, the prothonotary and jury commissioners have been notified to call the usual number of jurors to hold court during the week beginning June 16.

Revised Brooklyn Lineup Fails Against Chicago Cubs

Flatbush Mourns As Dodger Lead Fades; A's Trounce Indians

By BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer
Leo Durocher and his Brooklyn Dodgers are discovering this isn't going to be the kind of National League race where you can take anything for granted.
The Brooks looked fine while reeling off that winning streak of seven straight which hoisted them into first place. Then came an 11-inning defeat in Pittsburgh, and Durocher decided it was a good time to break up his combination.
In Chicago yesterday he stuck Pete Reiser back in the lineup in place of Jimmy Wascell, who had been leading the club with a .370 average; benched Dixie Walker in favor of right-handed hitting Joe Vosmik; and the Dodgers blew a 7-4 decision to the Cubs. With the St. Louis Cardinals meanwhile shading the Phillies, 6-5, that left Brooklyn only a game in front of the Redbirds.
Even Durocher's pet pitching magic, fast-baller Whitlow Wyatt, lost its effect for once, since he was lifted opening day for a pinchhitter in his losing effort against the Giants. Wyatt had aged to the post seven times and netted seven victories allowing a total of only 11 enemy runs.
But this time Chicago got the jump in the first inning and never was headed. Wyatt finally was knocked out in the seventh, while Larry French survived his mates' flying lapses to take a nine-hit

CHURCH LOOP GAME

The Grace M. E. softball team will meet the First Lutherans in a Church League game this evening on Beatty field. The game is scheduled to start at six o'clock.

Approximately 25 per cent of cars inspected by the Oklahoma Highway Patrol are found to be mechanically defective.

CONSERVATION PIONEER GIVEN BRONZE PLAQUE

Meadville, Pa., May 19.—(P)—John M. Phillips of Pittsburgh was hailed as "the greatest conservationist in the United States today" at ceremonies dedicating a bronze plaque to him "for his effort in the creation of Pymatuning Lake."
Charles French, state commissioner of Fisheries, thus eulogized Phillips, nationally known as a pioneer in the field of conservation, in the presence of about 2,000 Western Pennsylvania sportsmen yesterday.
The plaque is embedded in a native boulder on Ford Island in Pymatuning Reservoir, which Phillips converted into a fishing and wildlife paradise. Phillips, in responding to the tributes of French and other state officials and sportsmen, said the project "is perhaps the greatest thing we've done."
The sportsmen then began planting 70,000 willow sprouts along 30 miles of the reservoir's shoreline, where their growth will be beneficial to wildlife. Another feature was the public stocking of 300 large wall-eyed pike, some of them 24 inches long, in nearby Conneaut Lake.
Other dedication speakers were Judge G. O. Clark, chief of Crawford County; Robert Lambertson, Franklin, member of the game commission; J. R. Williams, director of state parks; Charles E. Baer, Emporium, deputy secretary of forests and water; A. A. Haines, St. Mary's, vice-president of the State Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs; Robert J. Miller, Duquesne, president of the Allegheny County Sportsmen's League; former Judge D. M. Miller of Allegheny County.

SPORT SCATTERINGS

Local admirers of Billy Conn, one of Pittsburgh's two fair-haired boys, the other being Fritz Zivic, will have an opportunity to see the toast of the Irish in action next Monday evening in Pittsburgh when Handsome Billy takes on Dayton, Ohio's Buddy Knox in what is scheduled as a tune-up bout in preparation for Conn's June date with heavyweight champion Joe Louis.
Knox is a treat in his own, being a fairly good puncher and having gained the distinction of being the busiest fighter in the game today. While Conn should not have trouble in winning this little set-to, Knox will undoubtedly give the Smokey City idol a scrap. The bout is slated for fifteen rounds, but this corner looks for an abbreviated finish.

We would have liked to have been in Philadelphia Saturday when they honored Connie Mack, baseball's greatest character, by setting aside a day for him which he well deserved. Fitting ceremonies and gifts presented to the silver-haired president and manager of the Athletics made the day one long to be remembered by baseball addicts. We know Connie no better than you, but whenever his name is mentioned it seems that he is a close friend. To our knowledge, no one has ever been able to remark, write, or prove anything uncomplimentary about the 78-year-old gentleman. He's one of baseball's immortals to whom all baseball fans look up and marvel.
Yes, Connie Mack had his day, and we hope he may live on to have more of them. Thank God we live in a country where men still appreciate a progressive genius instead of those where men and women have only one idol, and that one forced upon them, a destructive war lord.

Foul tips (no pun intended): Just sit tight, everybody, and we'll get that fence around Russell field before the summer is out. . . . Don't say we promised it, but they're working on the enclosure again and if things don't go wrong, Warren's ball park will be in good shape by football season. . . . Looks like the Warner act is over, what with Paul released outright the other day by the Dodgers, and Lloyd riding the bench most of the time these days for the Boston Braves. . . . Not a glorious ending for two of the finest baseball players the game has ever seen, and not an ending they deserved. . . .
To look at the attendance figures, you'd think the Buccos and the Phils were still playing spring exhibitions. . . . to look at the teams, you'd think so too. . . . Congratulations to Bill George, Gloria Genge, and Bud Phillips new cheerleaders for the Blue and White. . . . They aren't leather-lunged barkers but they're capable of handling the cheering next fall. . . . Now let's hope they have something to cheer over!

SOOSE HONORED Rose Gets Post In 500-Mile Classic

Indianapolis, May 19.—(P)—Mauri Rose, of Indianapolis, a factory worker, holds the honored pole position, inside in the front row, for the start of the 500-mile automobile race on Memorial Day.
Rose, employed in the Allison Airplane Engine Plant, grabbed the favored spot over the weekend as qualifying trials filled 18 of the 33 places in the starting lineup.
To qualify, a car must go 10 miles at 115 miles an hour, but only the 33 fastest will get in the race. Rose won the pole post by turning in the best speed—128.691 miles an hour—on Saturday, the first day for qualifications. Eleven other drivers qualified that day and six more yesterday.
The best time of yesterday's qualifiers was 123.894 miles an hour made by George Connor of Los Angeles, who was driving the No. 3 car of the Mike Boyle team. Wilbur Shaw of Indianapolis and Chet Miller of Detroit, his teammates, qualified Saturday.

COLORED STARS BOAST STRONG PITCHING STAFF

The Homestead Grays, slated to play the National Forge in the opening baseball game at Wilder Field, Irvine, next Thursday evening, will present a strong pitching staff that will provide an acid test for Forge batsmen.
Manager Vic Harris' mound crew is made up of four right-handers and two southpaws, led by Raymond Brown, veteran of ten seasons with the Grays. Brown lost only two games in league competition in 1940, and relies on dazzling speed and one of the best deceptive knuckle balls in the game today.
Roy Partlow is the southpaw ace on the club, being a constant winner in his four years under Harris. He owns exceptional speed and roundhouse curves with which he continually baffles opposing batters.
The remaining hurlers are: John Wright and Terrace McDuffie, both right-handers starting their first season with the Grays; Clifford Blackman, a rookie, and Hamilton, starting his third season, right-handed and left-handed artists respectively, who round out a crew of tossers that is hard to beat.
The game will start at 5:30 p. m.

BASEBALL SCHOOL

Pittsburgh, May 19.—(P)—Diamond artists from the sandlots will get their chance to break into the big time at the third annual Pittsburgh Pirates Free Baseball School June 3-7 at Forbes Field.
Boys at least 15 years old who wish to improve their game will be eligible, and those showing promise may be recommended for minor league contracts. The talent-pickers will include Fred (King) Lear, Honus Wagner, Wilbur Cooper and Leo Mackey, former playing stars, and Ernest G. Quigley, ex-umpire who now is National League promotion manager.

Conn Meets Louis And Court In June Musto-Thompson Go On Coast Tonight

Pittsburgh, May 19.—(P)—Ben Conn's heavyweight title fight with Joe Louis, Billy Conn will have a legal battle on his hands next month as the result of a unique petition for compensation filed against him and his manager, Johnny Ray, by Jimmy Lindsay of Pittsburgh, formerly known as the "Fighting Marine."
Lindsay claimed he was "totally and permanently" disabled by a head punch landed by Conn during a training bout in December, 1939. Lindsay said he suffered a brain injury which forced him to give up his $200-a-month job at a steel mill. He seeks the maximum $6,500 allowed by the Workmen's Compensation Act.
Conn and his manager denied that Lindsay was employed by them. The Workmen's Compensation Board indicated it would hold a hearing in the unusual suit some time next month, probably after the Conn-Louis bout in New York June 18.
Los Angeles, May 19.—(P)—Fifteen thousand or more fight fans are expected tonight to watch two heavyweight title aspirants, Turkey Thompson of Los Angeles and Tony Musto of Chicago, swap punches for a possible shot at Champion Joe Louis.
Billed for 10 rounds, the match shares interest with a battle for the California welterweight crown between two over-stuffed lightweights, veteran Baby Arizundi and Jackie Wilson, lanky Los Angeles negro who hopes for a chance for the 135-pound world's title or a match with Welterweight King Fritz Zivic.
The heavyweight bout marks the first time Musto has fought since he stood up for nine rounds under Louis' blows several weeks ago in St. Louis.

Chapter One
Alone On The Desert

THE somber grey haze of a slow-rising storm was sifting over the desert at the lonely place of the tomb, Jus Masar. Anne Willard threw her gloves and beret on the fine white gravel that looked like the splintered bones of prehistoric monsters and ran slim fingers through her chestnut hair. Her head was aching after the long bus ride, and the fact that she had not been met frightened her.

She had followed the directions in her father's telegram explicitly. Here she stood, bag and baggage, dropped from the Russian concession bus that crosses the Kalmar desert to the border of Shan Lun. With sinking heart she watched it disappear, running beside the telegraph line that circled a high, permanent dune which was anchored by tamarisk shrubs in grotesque shapes that looked like devil dancers.

This mission she was on was dangerous, she knew. But archaeologists do not expect a life of ease and safety. This was the thing she had lived for, longed for all her young life, to share her parents' profession. It had seemed gay and romantic in anticipation. Yet now that the time had come it took on a somewhat terrifying aspect.

She looked over at the round-domed tomb in a hollow between the hillocks.

"The resting place of an Arabian missionary, descendant of the Prophet, blessed of Allah," the Sart bus driver had told her in his broken English. He thought there might be a half-crazed hermit living somewhere in the cliffs above, but he did not question her desire to be left in such a place. She was from America where people have strange customs, and from which they make still stranger pilgrimages.

Anne noticed a single poplar tree that grew beside the tomb, a young thing perhaps half her own age and more than twice as tall. It proclaimed the season by a show of new green leaves. As she walked towards it she saw evidence of the anguished life it had led in the twisted trunk and broken limb stubs. Anne had a special feeling for trees. Sometimes she could talk to them and fancy they responded.

A sudden gust of wind sprang up from nowhere and struck her like a slap in the face. She backed

"I guess you saved my life," Anne stammered.

When I tossed you up a little while ago."

Small Talk

SHE might have told him that she was a girl, but she was so scared to scream. Instead she said, "What frightens the shepherds?"

"When dark comes, flames are supposed to dance above the tomb." He took a pipe out of his pocket and put it back again. "Have your eyes to see such things?"

"No," she admitted. And she realized what it would be like here if he had not appeared. Though he might be an enemy or a spy or just a coincidence, he was still a gift from the gods. She made a deliberate decision.

"Look at that tree by the tomb," she said. The haze was thickening in such a way that the tree appeared to come and go in a most disconcerting fashion. "There was no direct evidence of its breeze. She decided sensibly it must be something about the air currents around the monument and between the hillocks.

"The little warped poplar!" he asked.

"Could it be done?" he asked, regarding her: brown eyes, red lips, wine bronze hair in short waves, felt the slenderness of her body. "You didn't scream
